

We started off with the reflection session where we reflected on what we worked and learnt in the previous day. Later we started working on our prototypes. We worked on CAD where we designed a barbed adapter and t-adapter for the motor. We then checked if all the parts of our project are working. In addition to this we tried to generate a code that would get the device running. After a few reiterations we finally got the code that would work.